CEO's Comments

Mr. Jaime Rivera, Bladex's Chief Executive Officer, stated the following regarding the Bank's results: "Our financial results for the first quarter were a reflection of the favorable dynamics driving our market and our ability to capture its steady growth.

Over the course of the last three months, 2011 GDP growth projections for countries such as the US, Japan, and India, have been lowered. In marked contrast, in the case of Latin America, the IMF now expects growth in 2011 to reach 4.7%, a significant increase over the 4.3% figure published in January. We are thus operating in a market that continues to expand steadily, in spite of some level of concern with regards to inflation and uncertainties in other regions of the world. Along with our growing client reach, this explains our healthy 7% commercial portfolio growth for the quarter, laying the foundation for increasing revenue levels for the remainder of the year.

Just about every financial indicator moved in the right direction during the quarter. Our cost of funds and efficiency improved, deposit balances reached record levels, portfolio quality strengthened, the Asset Management Division returned to profitability, and ROE levels -- while still below our target -- approached double digit levels. The $16.3 million profit figure for the quarter contributed to the Bank's strong Tier 1 capitalization, which stands at 19.3%, even as our portfolio has expanded by 47% in the last year.

While we are not alone in the market and competition remains strong, our franchise continues to strengthen as our unique expertise in trade finance and our knowledge of Latin America become increasingly important competitive advantages. We still need to bring our new offices in Lima and Bogota fully on-stream, but expect to do so during the next few months, thus providing us with additional origination capabilities during the second half of the year.

All in all, the results for the first quarter followed from the steady execution of the plans we have set for the Bank: an increasing client base, additional deployment of capital, diversification of revenues, efficient funding, credit discipline and excellence in execution - all as a means of fueling increasing profitability and value." Mr. Rivera concluded.
